Lee County Board of County Commissioners Elections and Inauguration Ceremonies

“I, (Commissioner’s name), do solemnly swear that I will support, protect and defend the Constitution and Government of the United States of America and of the State of Florida; that I am duly qualified to hold office under the Constitution of the State of Florida and that I will well and faithfully perform the duties of Commissioner for Lee County, Florida on which I am now about to enter, so help me God.”

The reciting of the Oath of Office to become a member of the Lee County Board of County Commissioners has been the highlight of every Lee County Commissioners inauguration ceremony since the first one in 1887. From 1894 to 2005, the ceremony has been held in the County Courthouse Chambers or on the front steps of the Courthouse. From 1887 to 1893, when there was no county courthouse, the ceremony was conducted in the numerous rented facilities that served as the temporary courthouse.

A Lee County Commissioner serves a four-year term. Board members’ terms are staggered such that there is an election for county commissioners’ seats every two years...always on an even-numbered year.

The seats for Districts 1, 3 and 5 are on the presidential election years.

The seats for Districts 2 and 4 are on the non-presidential election years.

There have been 2 notable exceptions to this tradition:

1) May 1887...all five commissioners’ seats were up for election. This was the date of Lee County Government’s creation, and thus there were no sitting commissioners prior to this election. Winners in that first election were William Tolles, FA Hendry, Frank Wilson, Peter Nelson and John Powell.

2) November 2004....four commissioners’ seats were up for election. That being a Presidential election year, Districts 1, 3 and 5 were automatically on the ballot. Additionally, the District 4 seat was on the ballot because Andy Coy resigned that seat earlier in the year to run for the U.S. House of Representatives. Winners that year were District 1 – Bob Janes, District - 3 Ray Judah, District 4 – Tammy Hall and District 5 – John Albion. District 2 Commissioner Doug St. Cerny was not up for reelection.

Lee County Administrative Code AC-3-1, Rule 4.01 (adopted on April 18, 1990) requires the Board of County Commissioners to annually, on the third Tuesday in November, reorganize the officers of the Board by designating the Chairman and Vice Chairman to serve a one-year term. On election years, the inauguration ceremony precedes the Board’s “reorganization meeting.”

Lee County's Two County Courthouses Main Street, Fort Myers, Florida

1915 - Present

The two Lee County Courthouses, on approximately 1.75 acres of land ("Courthouse Square") in downtown Fort Myers, have been the physical and symbolic center of county government in Lee County since 1894 and the headquarters and offices for the Lee County Board of County Commissioners. Below are some highlights and milestones of the two courthouses over the years.

1887 - 1894 No permanent County Courthouse. Commissioners rented a room for their meetings.

December 1894 First Lee County Courthouse was built for $3,640. It was a two-story, wood-framed building without restrooms.

1910 - 1914 Great public debate over whether Lee County needed a new, larger courthouse.

Oct. 26, 1914 First Lee County Courthouse was destroyed by a crowd who wanted a new courthouse. Lee County Commission Chairman Bill Towles led the demolition.

December 1915 Current Lee County Courthouse opened for business. Construction cost $100,000. It is a two-story, stone and brick building.

1962 Four-story Lee County Administration Office Building was built on Courthouse Square, abutting the County Courthouse. Jail was located away from Courthouse Square.

1962 – 1989 The Commissioners moved their offices from the County Courthouse into the Administration Office Building, remaining there until they moved back into the renovated County Courthouse when it reopened to the public 27 years later. During this time, the commissioners held their meetings in the first-floor meeting room in the Administration Office Building.

April 16, 1984 The $32.5 million Lee County Justice Center opened to the public. It included the jail, the courtrooms and the offices for the Judges, Public Defender, State Attorney and County Clerk.

1984 - 1988 With all the courthouse officials moving into the new Justice Center, the Courthouse sat vacant. Without a repair and maintenance program, it fell into disrepair.

March 16, 1989 The Courthouse was listed on the National Register of Historic Places by the U.S. Interior Department.

Sept. 22, 1989 The Old Lee County Courthouse was restored to its original 1915 condition and floor plan at a cost of $5.15 million and reopened for business. Commissioners along with the area's Florida State House and Senate representatives moved their offices into the building. The commissioners' meeting room was transferred from the Administration Office Building to the second floor Commission Chambers in the Courthouse.

Summer 1994 The movie Just Cause, starring Sean Connery, was filmed at the courthouse.

Lee County Board of County Commissioners

1887 - 2011

Facts & Figures

From 1823 to 1887, the area now known as Lee County was part of Monroe County (Florida Keys). On May 13, 1887, the Florida State Legislature created the county of Lee, the 41st county in the state. Geographically, it was Florida's largest county and named after Civil War Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee. The county included the area that today is known as Lee, Hendry and Collier counties (in 1923, the Florida legislature created Collier and Hendry counties. Lee County's borders have not changed since then). On May 17, 1887, Lee County held its first election for the Lee County Board of County Commissioners. The Board's first meeting was at 3 p.m. on July 4, 1887, and it lasted an estimated 30 minutes.

Commissioners who were also Lee County Government staff members:

Doug Taylor, Mike Roeder and Ray Judah

Commissioners' political party affiliations:

Over the years, a “Democratic Lee County” became a “Republican Lee County.” From 1887 to the early 1960s, the Lee County political scene was dominated by the Democrat Party. During this period, only Democrats were elected to the Board. Consequently, every chairman of the board was a Democrat. It was quite common that there was no Republican vying for a specific position, and thus the Democratic primary determined who would fill the position.

From 1995 to the present, the Republican Party has dominated the political picture. During this period, only Republicans were elected to the Board. Typically there was no Democrat party opposition for many positions, and the Republican Party primary determined the winner for a position on the ballot.

The transition from a “Democratic County” to a “Republican County” took place during the mid-1960s to the mid-1990s with one exception: 1974 to 1976. During this transitional period, both Democrats and Republicans served simultaneously on the Board. The key period in this Democrat-to-Republican transition was 1972 to 1974. With the election of numerous Republicans in November 1972, The News-Press in an editorial stated “the day of the Democrat Party dominance is over in Lee County.”

The first Republican majority on the Lee Board of County Commissioners occurred in November of 1972 when three Republicans served on the board. Jim Sweeney Jr. was the first Republican chairman in Lee County Commission history. The first all Republican Board of County Commissioners occurred in November 1974.

Electing county commissioners

Single district voting system vs. countywide voting system

1887 to 1951 All commissioners were elected in the primary elections by the single district voting system, which limited voters to voting for the one commissioner who would represent their district. The system did not allow voters to vote for any commission candidates in the other four districts. Thus, commissioners campaigned only in their district, not countywide. During these 64 years, election winners took office in early January of the next year. Electing commissioners in the general election using the countywide voting system was a moot point until the early 1960s because rarely, if ever, did Republications run in the general election. Thus, with no Republican opposition in the general elections, the winner of the Democrat Party primary was going to be the next commissioner.

1951 A Florida State legislative statute—HB 985, Ch. 27677, Laws of Florida—eliminated the single district voting system in Lee County. The Bill required members of the Lee County Board of County Commissioners to be nominated by voters at large, and thus the conversion to countywide voting system for the primary elections went into effect in 1952. From this point, all candidates for the Board of County Commissioners had to run a countywide campaign for all elections (primary and general). Because of an ugly episode of politics, the Florida Legislature enacted HB 985, a law that only applied to Lee County., Florida Gov. Fuller Warren suspended Lee Commissioners Leon Smith and Edmund Keen, both of whom had been charged with embezzlement. Robert Parks replaced Smith and Walter Hasley replaced Keen, who a month later, was found not guilty of all charges. Keen then returned to his seat on the Board and Hasley, after only a month as a Lee Commissioner, was no longer a board member.

1972 The Florida Legislature passed several laws. One of the outcomes was that county commissioners would now take office in mid-November rather than early January of the next year, as had been the practice in Lee County since 1887.

1988 Lee County voters vote against a proposed county charter by a 4-to-1 margin. Additionally, voters vote against a proposal to change the voting system of electing county commissioners from the countywide voting system to the single district voting system.

Nov 1996 The voters of Lee County adopted a Lee County Charter (aka Home Rule), effective Jan. 1, 1997. Lee County was the 16th out of 67 Florida counties to have a charter. (Historical Note: In 1968, the Florida Legislature granted local voters the power to adopt charters to govern their counties. Charters are formal written documents that confer powers, duties, or privileges on the county. They resemble state or federal constitutions, and they must be approved, along with any amendments, by the voters of a county. According to several Florida constitutional scholars, the establishment of charter government was designed to remove the resolution of local problems from the state legislature's busy agenda and to grant the county electorate greater control over their regional affairs, such as deciding whether to use a district-wide or countywide election system for local officials).

2009 The 15-member Charter Review Commission met (as mandated in Lee Charter once every eight years with members selected by the Lee County Board of County Commissioners) to discuss possible changes to the charter. The committee discussed, at great length, the idea of returning to the single district voting system but eventually got the necessary 12 committee votes that automatically placed the item on the ballot. Without the necessary 12 votes, the decision to place the item on the 2010 ballot would have been left to the County Commissioners.

Basic differences between non-charter and charter counties:

Non-Charter

- Structure of county government specified in State Constitution and statutes
- Counties have powers of self-government as prescribed by the State Legislature

Charter

- Structure of county government specified in charter as approved by the electorate
- Counties have all powers of self-government unless inconsistent with State Constitution or law

Commissioners' duties and responsibilities evolved over the years.

1887 to early 1970s Commissioners earned a couple hundred dollars a month (the pay in the 1970s) for what was then a part-time job. Quite often, they were not in the courthouse. Consequently, each commissioner took care of daily governmental operations and matters within his district. Each commissioner had a barn in his district with his own trucks and men. Every morning about 6 a.m., from the barn, a commissioner would assign the men to do certain work in his district... mowing, putting in culverts, etc.

Dec. 1, 1971 Commissioners hired Lavon Wisher as Lee County government's first county administrator. She became the administrative head for day-to-day operations of county government and was responsible for all county staff. In the years prior to the county having a county administrator, the chairman of the board of the County Commissioners held those duties. Now that the commissioners had hired a professional administrator, the Board evolved into a "board of Directors" overseeing big picture items (example – determining policies, controlling the budget, etc.) and no longer were involved with daily operations.

Annual selection of the Chairman of the Board... aka the annual Board reorganization. Since 1993, the commissioners have followed a rotation schedule when electing the chairman and vice chairman. The rotation is based on the district number. Each of the five commissioners represents one district. Thus, as an example, the district one commissioner once every five years would become the vice chairman and then the next year he would become the chairman. After serving as the chairman for a year, he would "go to the back of the line” and eventually would become the vice chairman five years later. The rotation system is not a written and established county policy but rather a tradition and ‘gentlemen’s agreement.’ Consequently, there have been years when the ‘informal’ rotation system was not used. Over several years, an individual could serve as chairman several times while another commissioner might never serve as the chairman.

The new chairman is selected at the beginning of the Board meeting on the third week of each November. At the meeting, the outgoing chairman opens the meeting and immediately asks the Lee County Clerk of Circuit Court to chair the meeting for purposes of selecting the new chairman. Nominations are offered by the commissioners and a vote is taken. When one commissioner receives at least three votes, the election process for the chairman is complete. At that point, the new chairman assumes control of the meeting from the clerk and the new chairman asks for nominations for the new vice chairman. A vote ensues and when a vice chairman is elected, the Board moves on to other meeting agenda items.
